The University of Arizona

Founded: 1885

Enrollment: 22,500

CHRONICLE OF GROWTH AND PROGRESS

FROM humble frontier beginnings in 1885, the University of Arizona, in less than a century, has become one of the nation's great state universities. It is the Land-Grant institution of Arizona.

The University is located on an attractive 156-acre campus in Tucson, an historic city founded in 1776 as a Spanish presidio. The campus is framed by the Santa Catalina Mountains, a background of striking natural beauty.

The expected enrollment for 1967-68 is 22,500, about four times as many students as were enrolled ten years ago. This tremendous growth has been marked by corresponding increases in academic excellence, scientific recognition and attendance by students from all over the world. Students from 77 nations attended the University in the spring of 1967.

Another recent example of growth is the University's new College of Medicine, now in the construction phase. The first in Arizona, it will fill a need which has become apparent in recent years.

The University of Arizona is made up of 13 colleges, three schools, 75 academic subdivisions and departments and 29 divisions of research and special service.

The bachelor's degree is offered in 174 fields of study, the master's degree in 77, and the doctor's in 46.

In the University's chronicle of growth, no chapter is more inspiring than its modern pioneering in scientific teaching and research. Within a single decade, the institution has become a widely-recognized center of scientific advancement. Many famous names in science appear on its faculty roster.

Dr. Richard A. Harvill became the University's 14th president on November 16, 1951.

Low Cost Electricity from Natural GAS!

Here, in sight of the stadium, is one of the nation's foremost examples of Gas Total Energy — an amazing and practical new system of heating, lighting and cooling a large building or building complex by Natural Gas.

Gas engines, located on the 24th floor of each tower, drive generators to produce the electricity used throughout the tower. Heat from the operation of these engines is recovered and used for heating, cooling and water heating.

The Ohio State University has taken a bold new approach in its twin tower dorms and their unique yet practical use of Natural Gas. Gas Total Energy has an exciting future in many commercial and industrial applications. And, as in the past, Natural Gas continues to serve you better... for less... throughout your own modern home.

When Is A Wristwatch Like A Football Team?

An accurate wristwatch requires coordination too. The minute hand must know what the second hand is doing.

Roy's Jewelers practices "timepiece teamwork." They "coach" their wristwatches with a specially designed electronic timer to assure accurate and precise performance. A wristwatch from Roy's is precision-g geared, just like a winning football team . . . Except Roy's isn't interested in playing games.

Why not investigate the exciting array of precision wristwatches available at Roy's. Ask about Longines, the official watch for Ohio State University home football games.

Team up with time at Roy's . . . be part of a winning combination.

Block "O" Section Rallying Behind The Bucks

BLOCK "O", The Ohio State University's first successful flash card cheering section, was founded in 1938 after four previous attempts had failed. Failures were said to be partially blamed on the exclusion of coeds.

Clarence "Clancy" Isaac, founder, first conceived the idea to start a block cheering section after seeing a display produced by the students at the University of Southern California. Isaac began the task with an entirely new concept that a cheering section would be the catalyst of Ohio State spirit.

After a publicity campaign that involved local newspapers and radio stations, more than 1,500 students signed a petition pledging their support for a cheering section that included coeds. Clancy spent many hours designing stunts and other tasks in preparation for the football season. Just before Homecoming in 1938, an Ohio State Lantern headline declared that Block "O" was a huge success.

First Game Stunts: The United States Flag; Hi Fans; Buck 'Em Bucks; O.S.U. Checkmate; Blast Arizona.

Today, the slogan, "Help the Block Back the Bucks" reflects the initial spirit. Block "O" still offers students an opportunity to be a part of the color and excitement of Saturday afternoon in Columbus. This year, it has returned to its pre-World War II size of approximately 1,500 in a section at the top of the horseshoe.

Block "O" stunts "travel" a long way from original ideas to final flashing. The stunt design committee submits ideas for stunts to the executive committee which may accept or reject them. Those accepted are returned to the design committee for polishing. Once a stunt has been officially approved by the executive committee, it is sent to the stunt card committee. It then stamps instruction cards for each student in the Block. While some of the stunts are designed for a particular game, Ohio State fans can count on seeing an American flag blowing in the breeze at every game.

All of a sudden he's grown up.

One day you'll say, "He's his own man now." And you'll know the way was not easily found.

Of one thing you can be sure. He'll need all the education he can get — college, certainly, possibly even graduate school.

But there's a problem. Colleges are crowded and enrollments are growing. More classrooms, laboratories, libraries, good teachers will be needed.

These take money. So, give to the college of your choice now and help make certain college will be ready when he is.

Enrich his future—and America's.

Today, we freeze and package Ice Cream in our modern plants using the finest and most expensive ingredients, the strictest laboratory controls, and the skillful know-how of experienced employees. The result is an Ice Cream of fine quality and creamy goodness that is truly distinctive.*

First Stadium Action 45 Years Ago Today

FORTY-FIVE years ago today, Sept. 30, 1922, the first football practice was held on the Ohio Stadium turf.

This was 22 days before the official dedication on Oct. 21, with Michigan.

It was 3:30 p.m. when the late Dr. John W. Wilce led his 1922 squad onto the Buckeye playground in the middle west's newest and biggest stadium.

Seventy football players stepped cautiously onto the new field. Workmen looked down from "C" deck on the scarlet-clad athletes who were dashing around the dark green turf. Five hundred persons, who had been inspecting the stadium and were greeted by this unusual sight, lost no time selecting their own "reserved" seat in the stadium.

The move was a complete surprise to the players. When the squad left the Athletic House on High St. and headed for Ohio Field on the present site of Arps Hall, the players had no idea that Coach Wilce would head a three-quarter mile jaunt to the new horseshoe.

Wilce was the first to step on the gridiron, followed by Captain Lloyd (Butch) Pixley. Wilce assembled the team on the west side of the field in "A" deck and then led cheers himself for Prof. Thomas E. French, known as "Daddy of the Stadium" and for Samuel Summer, who had headed the building campaign.

The players moved down from their stadium seats and Tony Aquila, long-time ground-keeper, reluctantly removed his "Keep off the Grass" signs.

The first team scrimmaged the second unit and Quarterback Harry (Hoge) Workman scored the first touchdown ever recorded in the stadium. Halfback Wilmer Isabel scored another as the Varsity ran up 29 points while blanking the reserves. Workmen's 55 yard sprint for the third score was the longest run while the first completed pass was good for 40 yards.

Only one half was played, the remainder of the game being transferred to Ohio Field. Ohio Stadium had had its first taste of football.

When it's football time...
it's time to improve your lawn

Take advantage of the best time of the whole year to rejuvenate a lawn. The experts always fertilize in the fall, when natural growing conditions are best for the development of good, tight turf. You can literally help grass multiply itself with an October or November feeding. The benefits will be apparent this fall—and in next year's lawn Truly a once-a-year opportunity!

CHARLIE BROWN'S HAPPENING

Situation and Music

Charlie Brown's Impossible Dream brings about a series of happenings.

Snoopy, Charlie's dog, enjoys the happening of relaxation on top of his dog house Through Those Lazy, Hazy, Crazy Days of Summer.

Schroeder is dedicated to a Beethoven happening in this instance a portion of the Moonlight Sonata.

Charlie says Let's Fly A Kite, but continues to have an unfortunate happening with the kite-eating tree.

Of all the happenings in Charlie Brown's life, his unsuccessful baseball experience adds up to 1-2-3, no hit, no runs — but many errors.

Snoopy attempts to save the day as Snoopy Versus The Red Baron.

Charlie and his friends do look forward to a happening with The Ohio State University Alumni Marching Band.

Big Ten teams have won 16

West Coast teams have won 5

Meanwhile, on Other Saturdays...

THE STADIUM at Southwestern College of Memphis, Tenn., is almost invisible from the streets that surround it; quiet avenues in the same neighborhood that includes the zoo, the Doughboy monument, the city's largest park and a shaded, gracefully aging residential section.

There are no traffic jams—a not unusual phenomena where there is no traffic—when Southwestern plays a football game. The stadium—neat, small, undistinguished—dozes in a remote corner of the pastoral campus. On a Saturday afternoon with the team engaged in dramatic conflict with an ancient rival you may expect to see a scholarly-looking sort strolling beyond the shadows of the grandstand; seeking solitude and finding it.

Although Southwestern is not even a perennial power in the College Athletic Conference, its alumni do not look askance at that situation. They would be surprised to learn an outsider was aware of the school, startled to know he had heard of the CAC, an alliance of mostly Southern liberal arts colleges with a common background of the bygone glamour and contemporary ideals.

At one time the Southwestern coach was Jess Neely and the Lynx cats played Ole Miss and Vanderbilt and others of that ilk and stature. Boss Crump supported a measure to construct a large stadium to support the Southwestern ambitions and players like "Chicken" High and Gaylon Smith were accorded the publicity of latter-day Sinkwiches, Trippis and Namaths.

High, a 120-pounder who played for a Neely team in the 1920's, was considered the nonpareil among punt returners and broken field runners of his day. He scored two touchdowns against Alabama one noteworthy afternoon. Smith, a large back of the classic mold, later played with the Cleveland Rams and the Cleveland Browns. Frank Thomas called him "the best halfback I ever saw."

Other CAC members have known the feeling of national devotion; their names even today provoke an instant of recognition. There is, for example, the legend of Centre College: Bo McMillin and the other Prayin' Colonels, an unlikely band of Texans and Kentuckians who defeated mighty Harvard on that 1921 afternoon in Massachusetts. Harvard had not lost an intersectional game in 44 years (years not games) before that splendid, shocking date.

In 1899, Sewanee, another CAC member, launched an extraordinary odyssey, five games in six days against opponents from Texas to North Carolina, entering forever into the folders of collectors of Americana, would-you-believe cartoons and miscellaneous artifact dispensers.

As late as 1940, Sewanee was still a member of the Southeastern Conference, one season defeating Mississippi State after the Mississippi State coach, Chris Cagle, preparing for a bigger game the following week end, said he did not plan to "use anything" against Sewanee and lived up to his word come hell and enormous chagrin.

Washington and Lee, another CAC school, is surrounded not so much by legend of past deeds as by the sound of the Washington and Lee Swing, one of the most popular of all the autumn's marches, a tune long ago appropriated by universities who maintain football rosters almost as large as the Washington and Lee enrollment.

Nevertheless there is a special flavor, a distinction, to a CAC game. Many players wear spectacles. Some are too fat and others too lean. There are, naturally, excellent athletes among the lot, players who could bear up quite nicely in the hurricane and sweatstorms of major college football. They are using the same Saturdays that Notre Dame and Michigan State and Southern California are using.

If a spectator can shake off the habit of the organized, synchronized, musically - accompanied spectacles that surround major games, he can find a rare excitement in a CAC contest, an antique charm in the surroundings, perhaps even an antique charm in the execution: Southwestern upset Centre last season when the Centre center twice crossed up the Centre punter, once snapping the ball over his head and later dribbling it back, wobbling grotesquely on the ground.

At Southwestern the uniform of the pep band is no uniform at all save a few unmatched scraps that appear as though they might have been recovered in the path of Napoleon's armies retreating from Moscow. The team physician may fall asleep in the sun between halves. Small dogs wander, not cross the field, but in the grandstand, lapping up unguarded soft drinks and arrogantly ignoring prospects of affection. The downs marker, standing in the midst of the opposing team, will jump about enthusiastically cheering for the Lynx cats.

Jack Farris, a novelist and Southwestern professor who was an athlete (scholarshipped) at Ouachita College and a student during the Yost era at Michigan, is a follower of the Southwestern team, typical if the image includes an advanced intellect and a bristly mustache.

Farris does not regard the pulverizing licks common to the Big Ten or the Southeastern Conference or the Texas high schools as necessary for an exciting football game. "We beat Principia here one year in the last three minutes, 28 to 24 I think it was, and that was one of the most exciting games I've ever seen. I've seen Big Ten teams, great teams, play terribly dull games. I used to think that after you'd watched the big teams for a long time you could never enjoy football on this level, but that isn't true. This is like a picnic and in the past few years I've learned to enjoy this more than any other kind of football."

Meanwhile some latter-day McMillin is even now preparing once again to rescue his school from obscurity. Fair Harvard be forewarned.
